POPULATION WITH SMART PHONES:	85%
LOCATION:	OFF THE SOUTHERN TIP OF MALAYSIA
ESTABLISHED:	1819 BRITISH COLONIZED

As the economic hub of Southeast Asia and home to one of the world's busiest airports, Singapore is uniquely positioned at the crossroads between the East and West. Not only can you quickly feel comfortable in this English-speaking city-state, you can also take advantage of Singapore's prime geographic location to access the rest of Asia easily and affordably. With soaring skyscrapers forming an impressive skyline right next to tiny traditional lanes best explored on foot, the city is an exciting mix of history and modernity, local living and global aspirations. For business majors, there's no better place to take your education and understanding of both the Asian and world economy to the next level. From bustling Chinatown to the energetic Little India and Arab Street, the city is filled with personality, mouthwatering dishes – be sure to test out the famous hawker centers – serious shopping and elaborate festivals.

SINGAPORE MANAGEMENT UNIVERSITY (SMU)

- Founded in 2000 in collaboration with world-class institutions, Singapore Management University is one of the youngest institutions in the world to achieve both AACSB and EQUIS accreditations.
- With an emphasis on globalization, SMU features full-time faculty members and industry practitioners from over 30 different nationalities and 84% of full-time students have gone on their own overseas program.
- Located in the center of the city, SMU's campus is cosmopolitan (think NYU) and features coffee shops, a library, reading rooms, art studios, sports hall, gymnasium and swimming pool.
- SMU has over 120 special interest groups to help participants integrate with other local and international students.
- Student services include: University ID, modern library, computer labs, on-campus security, health and counseling services, sports and recreation facilities, including pool, and over 120 student clubs and societies.

The SMU campus is located in the city center
